

Layering Falls

This is a quick tutorial I whipped up. This is for those that want more coverage with their falls or have small bun diameters.

First Step: Take your DE fold it over and rubberband the top to make a loop. If using single enders omit this step

Step 2: Cut two equal lengths of lace/stretch lace.

Step 3: Thread on the first dread onto both pieces of lace. This dread becomes your anchor.

Step 4: Thread on dreads on to the separate pieces of lace.

Step 5: Keep threading on dreads reserving one for the other anchor.

Step 6: Thread on last dread onto both pieces of lace(see step one). Then sinch up the dreads to the lace by pulling both sides like you would to tighten a pony tail.

Step 7: Smoosh all the dreads together as tight as you can. Then tie a knot to the anchor dreads.

Step 8: Voi La! You now have a full and layered fall to wear.

Layered Dreads:

To make the dreads have a layered look just uses short length and medium length dreads on the front strand of lace and medium and long ones in the back.

These falls are compleatly versitle and non-perminatnt. To change them up all you have to do is untie the ends!Hope this was informative and useful for you!
